

Neighbors, police save a man in woods near Indiana 62

By TALI HUNT

A man was found injured and undoubtedly cold Sunday in the woods around North Indiana 62 by the quick action of first responders. But, without the luck and response of Roger and Jane Williams, no one might have even known the man was there.

Roger went into the cold dark evening just before 6:30 p.m. to put his horses inside for the night as the temperature outside began to drop below freezing. After he finished, but before he made it back to his house, he heard what he thought was a person yell “Help!”

“...I thought I heard a voice,” he said. “I yelled ‘Hello’ and heard someone yelling ‘Help.’”

Roger said he ran to the house and told his wife Jane what he had heard. He headed back out and met his neighbor, Mike Willhite. Willhite is a doctor, so Roger thought he might be able to provide aid to whomever was calling out if they could find him.

Jane called 911 as the men hopped in Roger’s vehicle to head down Indiana 62 to try to find the man. The neighbors live at the top of a ridge and thought the man was at the bottom.

But, when the men stopped at the bottom and yelled for the man...

“Hello!...We’re coming!...Hello!”

They couldn’t hear a response.

Julie Willhite, Mike’s wife, said she could “hear the man yelling help over and over again” from her porch. She said she tried to yell back to him to let him know that someone heard him.

She said they couldn’t tell where in the woods his voice was coming from.

The men met first responders on Indiana 62 at the bottom of the ridge just before China. The first on the scene was an Indiana State Police trooper with two Jefferson County Sheriff’s deputies close behind him. They still hadn’t heard the man call out again.

Roger and Mike led the officers to Mike’s property near Indiana 62. Roger called out to the man again: “Hello?”

“Help!” came the immediate response.

As soon as they heard him, the officers jumped into action, and continued the search while the Williamses and Willhites waited and watched.

Week for faith and fun at Prince of Peace schools

Prince of Peace Catholic School students, local law enforcement officers and volunteer firefighters spent time together Monday as part of the recognition of National Catholic Schools Week celebration.

Pope John XXIII students joined both the police and sheriff’s departments for lunch Monday afternoon. The students handed officers signed cards thanking them for “keeping the community safe.”

After lunch, officers took a short break before heading to Shawe Memorial High School for the annual two-hour long dodgeball tournament. The final game pitted students against police and firefighters. Students took the win.

National Catholic Schools Week, which started in 1974, is a weeklong event that includes open houses, themed school days where students are encouraged to express themselves, and Prince of Peace’s annual Golden Shamrock Award ceremony which will take place Thursday at 8:30 a.m. in Shawe’s gym. Chris and Anne Higgins will be honored for their continued dedication to Catholic education and the Church, according to a news release by the selection committee.

Dangerous cold to settle in for 48-72 hours

By TRENTON SCROGGINS

The National Weather Service is advising the public to dress warm and limit outside activity today, tomorrow and Thursday because exposure to the expected extremely cold temperatures for longer than 30 minutes could cause frostbite and hypothermia.

The arctic front that will sweep through the Courierarea this week will bring wind chills as low as 15 to 20 below. There also are warning that high wind gusts might reduce driver visibility and low temperatures will develop black ice and slick travel conditions. There is the possibility of up to 3 inches of snow accumulation along the corridor east of I-65.

Today is expected to be partly sunny with a high near 20 degrees, and wind chills as low as a degree below.

Here is what the weather service said to expect for the next few days:

Tonight, mostly cloudy with a low of a degree below, a 20 percent chance of snow before 1 a.m., and wind chill values as low as 17 below.

Wednesday, mostly cloudy through the morning with a high near 6 degrees. A clearer sky in the afternoon with wind chill values as low as 21 below.

Wednesday night, mostly clear with a low around 3 degrees below.

Thursday, mostly sunny with a high near 18 degrees. The weather service predicts cloudy skies with a 50 percent chance of snow for Thursday night, and a low of 14 degrees.

Friday, cloudy with a high near 33 degrees, and a 40 percent chance of snow. Friday night is predicted to be mostly cloudy, with a low of 26 degrees.

The weather is expected to warm up Saturday with an expected high near 44 and a 20 percent chance of rain and snow in the evening.

Trash delay

The City of Madison posted to its Facebook page Monday that residents who normally have curbside pickup on Wednesday and Thursday will be delayed one day because the cold would be dangerous to workers.

Correction

The Jefferson County Council and Jefferson County Commissioners will meet jointly for further discussion about potential jail properties at 5 p.m. Thursday at the Jefferson County Courthouse. An earlier meeting notice in the Madison Courier that ran on Saturday, Jan. 26 gave the wrong time for this public meeting.

Chase through Madison ends in crash outside Vevay

The Madison Police Department about 3 p.m. Monday pursued a man on a motorcycle from the hilltop through downtown and out of town, heading east on Indiana 56. Officers from the Jefferson County Sheriff’s Department also joined the chase but called it off as the rider crossed into Switzerland County. The Switzerland County Sheriff’s Department pursued the man as he headed east before he turned around and began heading west on Indiana 56. He crashed the vehicle less than two miles west of Vevay. The reason for the pursuit, condition of the man and potential charges against him have not been made available. (Photo from WKMNNews)

Shortage of nurses meets shortage of educators

By MARY BETH SPALDING
South Bend Tribune

One of the problems that is helping to cause a much publicized national nursing shortage also seems to be a hiccup in the remedy.

A lot of baby boomer nurses are retiring, which not only has led to a nurse staffing crunch in some areas but also means a loss of qualified faculty for many nursing programs, putting a squeeze on the ability to admit more students.

Deb Green, chair of the nursing department at Southwestern Michigan College in Dowagiac, said it's an issue for nursing programs everywhere, and one SMC will have to manage when it wants to ramp up admissions for its newly expanded Nursing and Health Education Building.

The nursing shortage helped to propel the expansion project, with one goal being to eventually expand admissions, Green said.

Green noted it's not a matter of just finding faculty, though, but finding faculty who also have the clinical experience required to teach, which is needed to maintain program accreditation.

A key driver of a projected nursing shortage is aging baby boomers, all of whom will be older than age 65 in 2030, according to census data.

Just as the elder population in need of health care is growing, many nurses from that same generation are retiring.

There are nearly 3 million registered nurses in the United States. The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates more than half a million of them will retire by 2022, and that more than 1 million new nurses will be needed by then to help meet health care needs.

"One of the things we hear consistently from Indiana nursing deans is it is a challenge to recruit and retain nurse faculty, and that that is limiting the ability of nursing programs to educate all of the qualified students that are interested in pursuing a career in nursing," Blayne Miley, director of policy and advocacy for the Indiana State Nurses Association, said.

Indiana nursing programs in 2017 had to turn away 700 qualified applicants for undergraduate studies, Miley has said.

Retirement is one factor in the faculty crunch. Another is that graduate degree nurses can earn more practicing than they can teaching, he said.

The median salary of a nurse practitioner is about $98,000, according to federal data. A faculty position might pay $30,000 less, according to Miley.

His group is again pushing a bill in the Indiana Senate that would offer nursing faculty grants to help repay loan debt.

A House bill this legislative session would use a license fee surcharge to fund health care workforce initiatives, which potentially could be put toward nurse faculty recruitment and retention or other efforts to bolster the nursing workforce, Miley said.

Some data in recent years suggested widespread nursing deficits.

More current federal data suggest shortages are more scattered, and even project surpluses by 2030, small in Michigan, larger in Indiana.

"One of the challenges with the nursing workforce ... is it's not just about having the raw numbers, it's about having enough numbers in certain places. Certain areas like Marion County and the doughnut counties in central Indiana (around Indianapolis) could have even potentially a surplus, but that doesn't mean there aren't pockets of the state or the region, including areas in Michigan, that are going to really struggle to be filling nursing positions," Miley said.

Ginger Sadberry sees that problem in southwestern Michigan.

Sadberry is nurse recruiting liaison for Spectrum Health Lakeland, St. Joseph, and said the rural nature of the area makes recruitment more difficult.

Three Lakeland hospitals in Niles, St. Joseph and Watervliet, plus other services like hospice, currently have 60 open positions for registered nurses, Sadberry said.

A normal number might be around 45. Last year, open RN jobs numbered nearly 100.

"Last year, we brought in 11 nurses from all over the U.S. and also Puerto Rico," Sadberry said

But filling slots with agency nurses, who typically travel to work at various hospitals on contract, is "very expensive," she said.

She prefers to recruit permanent hires with strategies that include reaching out through social media, as well as through area high schools and colleges.

Lakeland nurtures a relationship with SMC, Sadberry said, because it has a strong nursing program and "we're excited to get those nurses."

The SMC nursing school admits 40 new students each fall and spring, and the competitive program routinely turns away applicants, department chair Green said.

When the school will be able to admit more students is unclear.

"We'll do that a little bit at a time," Green said, "because we need to offer the students the resources that they need to be successful."

Gary's cash-strapped school district sells Picasso model

Indiana

GARY — Gary's cash-strapped school district has sold a model of Chicago's famous downtown Picasso statue as part of an auction to boost the district's finances. The 16-foot-tall wooden model of the actual steel sculpture was sold last week for $20,000 to a private collector from Belgium during an auction of several art pieces by Kraft Auction Service. The model wasn't created by Pablo Picasso, but the Spanish artist approved it as a model for his untitled Chicago sculpture unveiled in 1967. The (Northwest Indiana) Times reported the model was given to the Gary Community School Corp. in 1970. The auction of art as well as equipment and unused supplies is part of a state-appointed emergency manager's plan to shore up the school district's finances and pay down its debt.

State open for 2018 income tax returns

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana residents can now file their 2018 income taxes with the state. The Indiana Department of Revenue said Monday that it is now accepting tax filings. Officials asked taxpayers to make sure their information is correct and complete before filing "to ensure timely processing." DOR Commissioner Adam Krupp says taxpayers should wait to file until they have all of the necessary documentation. He says there's almost always a delay if taxes are filed without proper documents. The department also is asking taxpayers to make sure they're using the correct form, avoiding duplicate filings and filing electronically if possible. DOR says filing online ensures "faster and more accurate returns. The deadline to file is April 15.

Man arrested in Indy bar shooting of 5

INDIANAPOLIS — Police say they've arrested a man in connection with a bar shooting that wounded five people. Police announced Sunday that they arrested Dejuan Brown, 38. He faces preliminary charges of two counts of aggravated battery and three counts of felony battery. Police say detectives learned that Brown was involved in a disturbance at the Brotherman Tavern and was removed by security but he returned around 2 a.m. Saturday and began firing, wounding three men and two women ranging in age from 35 to 57. Authorities say all of the victims are expected to survive and that two have been released from the hospital. It wasn't immediately clear if Brown has an attorney who might comment on his behalf.

Industrial livestock regulations adopted

MUNCIE — Delaware County has adopted regulations for industrial livestock production despite opposition from opponents who call the controls too weak. The ordinance approved last week by Delaware County Commissioners was prompted by a proposed 10,560-head hog farm that's tied up in court. The Star Press reports that agricultural advocates say the ordinance is too restrictive for large livestock farms, which are also known as concentrated animal feeding operations, or CAFOs. But Ball State University urban planning professor Bruce Frankel said the ordinance lacks control for CAFOs along the Cardinal Greenway recreational trail that crosses the county. The county's commissioners said that a compromise ordinance was better than no regulations. Commissioner James King said, "We can't make everybody happy" and the new ordinance could always be amended later.

Notre Dame student critical after stair fall

SOUTH BEND — University of Notre Dame officials say an 18-year-old freshman student was in critical condition after suffering a head injury in a fall at a residence hall. The South Bend Tribune reports that Notre Dame officials say the student fell Sunday in an interior stairwell at Sorin Hall, a men's residence hall on campus. The university didn't identify the student. Officials said in a news release that the Notre Dame Fire Department responded to a call 2 a.m. Sunday requesting medical attention. The student was taken to Memorial Hospital. Notre Dame police are investigating how the student fell.

City shuts homeless camps as temps fall

LEXINGTON — The City of Lexington has taken down several homeless camps this month as temperatures continue to drop. The Lexington Herald-Leader reported a director of one of the city's homeless shelters says the city may be removing the camps, but that's not helping to move people inside. Catholic Action Center's Ginny Ramsey said very few homeless people stay at shelters because they're also struggling with mental health issues. City officials say a spike in Hepatitis A cases in the local homeless population was

PETS OF THE WEEK

MAMA T, above, is a sweet girl who is searching for an indoor home. Mama T would like a warm, safe space to stretch out and be loved. She is called Mama because she had a kitten with her. The kitten has been adopted. At the shelter, Mama T is rather picky about how her cage is set up. She likes it ‘homey’ and will let the staff know if it is not. Mama T is a 2- to 3-year-old Tortoiseshell with pretty, light-orange patches on her face and body. She is $45 off her adoption and spay fee.

ROCKY, below, is super smart. He has already learned sit, wait, and shake. Rocky is very attentive and he likes to please, so he will learn lots more very quickly. Rocky loves to play with toys and balls are his absolute favorite. Kong, Nylabone, Orbee Tuff and other brands for power chewers are recommended as tennis balls do not hold up long for him. Rocky is a 1- to 3-year-old boy with beautiful, dark, black and brindle fur. He is a Bull Mastiff mix who weighs 83 lbs. Rocky will need to meet the other dogs in the family and seems to not like cats just yet. His adoption fee is $30 plus the cost of his neuter and rabies vaccination.

The Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter currently has 7 dogs or puppies, and 9 cats or kittens available. Pictures of additional pets waiting for adoption can be viewed at www.sisaveapet.com Normal shelter hours are Monday, Thursday and Friday from noon to 5 p.m., Wednesday from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday from noon to 4 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 3 p.m. It is closed Tuesday. The shelter number is (812) 273-1788 and the email is jcas39@seidata.com.

Dogs and Cats are $30 plus prepayment of their spay/neuter and rabies vaccination. Cats who are already spayed/neutered are $45 plus prepayment of their rabies vaccination if it is needed. Dogs who are already spayed/neutered are $55 plus prepayment of their rabies vaccination if it is needed. The total cost of the spay/neuter and rabies vaccination varies depending on the veterinarian or clinic chosen.

Volunteers are always welcome at the shelter. Individuals must be at least 16 years old to volunteer. Volunteers can help with everyday cleaning, answering phones, and exercising the pets. Contact the shelter for details.

The shelter is a registered organization with the Kroger Community Rewards program. To support the shelter, register a Kroger card at www.krogercommunityrewards.com and enter FL919.

Support the shelter while walking your dog. Use the “Walk for a Dog” or “WoofTrax” app available through the App Store or Google Play. For each mile walked, a donation is made to the shelter.

A list of needed items can be found on the shelter website. Donations can be mailed to 2727 Hannah Drive, Madison, IN 47250 or dropped off during shelter hours. The shelter also accepts aluminum and steel cans, which are recycled and the proceeds put toward the medical fund. Recent donations have helped get treatment for a beagle with a skin infection and a cat with wounds. The shelter asks that aluminum and steel donations be separated. Steel cans should also be rinsed before they are dropped off. Cans can be dropped off at anytime in a bin located on the east side of the shelter.

Those with missing pets can stop by the shelter, call or email a complete description of the pet, when and where it was last seen, the owner’s name and contact information, and a picture of the pet. Pets are held for three days before they are made available for adoption.

Animals should not be abandoned outside of the shelter or dropped off at the shelter after hours.

Police recover painting stolen in broad daylight

By NATALIYA VASILYEVA
MOSCOW (AP) — Russian police on Monday found the painting that was stolen a day earlier from Moscow’s famed museum of Russian art in broad daylight before unsuspecting visitors.

The painting of mountain ridges by Arkhip Kuindzhi, titled “Ai-Petri. Crimea,” was stolen in front of confused visitors on Sunday evening at the Tretyakov Gallery in one of the most brazen Russian art heist in recent memory.

CCTV footage released by the police shows a young man calmly walking up to the painting, stopping to take a look and then taking it off the wall with other visitors looking on. He then crosses the hall and walks away.

The Interior Ministry said Monday that they have detained a 31-year-old suspect in the theft and recovered the painting, which had been hidden at a construction site outside Moscow. Police said the man was detained last December for drug possession and has been on bail since.

The man said in the video of interrogation posted online by the police that he “did not commit any crimes” and that he could not remember where he was on Sunday.

The painting had an insurance estimate of $185,000 but some other works by Kuindzhi have fetched more than $3 million at auctions.

The theft raised questions about security at the Tretyakov Gallery, one of Russia’s most renowned museums.

The Tretyakov was hit by another brazen crime last May when a man attacked a famous 19th-century painting with a metal stanchion. The man reportedly damaged the painting, which depicts Russia’s first czar cradling his dying son after striking him in a fit of rage, because he thought it to be historically inaccurate.

Russia’s Culture Minister said after Kuindzhi’s painting was recovered that it would push for all temporarily exhibitions at state-owned museums to be equipped with motion detectors.

Investigators have yet to establish whether the man had an accomplice or not.

All not in with husband’s family

Dear Annie: My husband of two years was divorced from his ex six years ago. They had no children. The divorce was the result of infidelity on his part. When we began to date, he was very upfront with me about his dysfunctional marriage and about how his infidelity was the result of his being shut down by his wife in the bedroom for several years. They split, and she bought a house 1 mile away from him. He was honest about what happened and was very clear he had nothing to hide.

She has suddenly become all about “the family.” It is as if she is taking out her anger over the divorce on me. 1) I wasn’t the girl he was seeing back then. 2) It isn’t her business.

Now it has been made perfectly clear that his family recognizes her as family and not me, and he is also treated like an outcast. She is front and center of everything, attending all family events.

Annie Lane

I have tried to be nice and civil to her, but she is always rude to me. My husband’s sister finally came around and apologized, recognizing that the ex’s being around all the time does pose a problem.

I love him, and I hate to see him hurting like this. How should I handle his family when we both feel like outcasts? — Outcast

Dear Outcast: Though you can’t control other people’s actions, you can control your reactions to other people. Try to be sympathetic to your husband’s ex-wife. Clearly, she has struggled to move on from their marriage. By focusing all of her energy on his family, she is wasting opportunities to meet a new partner and move on with her life. As far as how your in-laws are treating your husband and you, all you can do is lend your support and love to him.

It sounds as if you’re off to a good start toward repairing your relationship and, in turn, your husband’s relationship with his family, given his sister extended an olive branch and apologized. Try as best you can to be the bigger person and accept her apology. Let go of any resentment you hold. Let’s hope that in the future, he will once again feel close to his family. As is always the case, communication is key. When your feelings and expectations are clear — and you are clear on everybody else’s — then the situation will go more smoothly.

Dear Annie: This is in response to “Blindsided by Blue,” who’s losing her eyesight from looking at a computer screen all day. Many years ago, the company I worked for rented office space to a lighting company. The woman running the lighting company suggested that we put some sort of secondary lighting by our computers so our eyes could adjust to different levels of light. I did this. I have been retired for over 20 years, and I still have a lamp by my computer. I’ve had no loss of eyesight. I hope this helps. — Still Seeing

Dear Still Seeing: Thank you for your insightful (no pun intended) advice on protecting eyesight.

Long before short, short before long

By Phillip Alder

Oscar Wilde said, "Consistency is the last refuge of the unimaginative."

If you play at Bridge Base Online against the robots, you notice that their opening leads tend to be imaginative — fourth-highest from the longest and strongest is not in their code. But they can be consistent; for example, refusing to lead low away from a king. (On one deal, I did receive a lead away from a king. I immediately knew who held the other two kings I was missing!)

Sometimes, the robots play very well; at others, bizarrely. In this deal, what do you think West led against my contract of three no-trump?

Suppose West guesses to open with the club six. How should South proceed?

In general, not using Stayman with a 4-3-3-3 hand is right.

After winning the first trick in hand, South should play three rounds of hearts ending on the board. Here, he cashes the heart 10 (discarding a spade) before running the spade queen. If West resists the temptation to cash the diamond ace, the contract will be made with only one overtrick.

Against me, West led the diamond ace! This was not so silly if he was going to get in with his spade king before I had taken nine tricks. At trick two, West continued with the diamond queen, and East (another robot) carefully unblocked the jack. However, I won that trick and ran my hearts, West discarding one spade and one club. Since I had nine tricks available now, I continued with the spade queen and put up my ace ... and West threw the king despite also having the six! Now I took 12 tricks.

Gerald Johnson Jr.

Gerald R. Johnson Jr., veteran business leader and lifelong champion for Hanover College, died in Hanover, Indiana, on Jan. 22, 2019. He had just turned 72.

He was the retired co-founder, chairman and CEO of Mercantile Bank Corporation of Grand Rapids, Michigan, and more recently, the retired executive director of Hanover College's Business Scholars Program. He was born in Lima, Ohio, on Jan. 20, 1947. His father (and grandfather and great-grandfather) were all Presbyterian pastors, but he pursued a different professional path. He became the first member of his family to build a highly successful career in banking and finance, beginning as a management trainee at what was then Indiana National Bank in Indianapolis, then moving on to greater opportunities in St. Paul, Minnesota, and later in Grand Rapids, Michigan. There, he co-founded Michigan's third largest bank, attracting over $3 billion in capital assets and ringing the opening bell at the NASDAQ on the day the bank went public in October 1997. He was a 1969 honors graduate of Hanover College, where he majored in English and theology. He continued to serve the college for many years as a trustee, leader of the Business Scholars Program and the Leverett Career Center, mentor for many students, and substantial contributor to Hanover's mission as well as to students needing help to meet financial challenges. He was serving as a Hanover trustee at the time of his death. It was at Hanover where he met the love of his life, Betsy Milligan Johnson — first, when the two attended Hanover as students, and then again nearly 40 years later when both were involved in serving the college community. They were married on April 26, 2008, the date that marked the beginning of the happiest and most fulfilling days of his all-too-brief life. He was an active participant and leading citizen every place he lived, serving on a wide range of community and non-profit boards in Grand Rapids and in Hanover. He also served his country in the Indiana Army National Guard as secretary for the Commanding General of the 38th Infantry Division and mustering out after six years with the rank of staff sergeant.

He is survived by his wife, Betsy, of Hanover; by his brother, David Lawther Johnson, Indianapolis; his niece, Catherine Nobles Johnson, Falls Church, Virginia; Betsy's children, Andrew Smithka of Zionsville, Indiana, and Chris Smithka of Madison, Wisconsin; and Betsy's five grandchildren. He is also remembered, warmly and gratefully, by the countless friends, colleagues, students and community members whose lives he touched and made better by knowing over the course of many years. He was charismatic and kind, a generous and genuine servant leader. His legacy of service, stewardship and hope will continue to guide all of us who already miss him greatly.

Visitation will be on Saturday, Feb. 2, from 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m. at the Hanover Presbyterian Church.

A memorial service will follow from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the church.

Memorial contributions may be made to the "Jerry Johnson Student Needs Fund" at Hanover College, or to The Nature Conservancy of Indiana.

Help for child advocacy

Trilogy Health presented a check for $1,160 to the Jefferson County Child Advocacy Center Monday afternoon at the center’s new location in the Clearinghouse at East Second and West streets. Dana Riddle (left) representing Trilogy Health presented the check to Jefferson County Prosecutor David Sutter and his wife, Kate Sutter. Mary Beth Boone (right), a child advocate for the center, said, “The Child Advocacy Center is a different organization than CASA and Voices for Children.” The center conducts forensic, multimedia interviews with victimized children, providing the footage to child protection, medical and mental health professionals, the courts and police. Sutter explained that this method reduces the number of times a child is asked to repeat personal statements on traumatic experiences, an experience that is oftentimes traumatic itself. A gift to keep on giving

At the end of each year, Grote’s Lamplighters Club presents a donation to the non-profit chosen by its club president. This year, the check — for $13,000 — went to the Jefferson County Community Foundation. The Lamplighter Club chose to create the Grote Lamplighter Club Endowment as a donor-advised endowment, meaning that the Lamplighter Club members will annually determine how grants from the endowment will be used to benefit local and area nonprofit organizations. “We appreciate the Grote Lamplighters Club and their commitment to helping local nonprofit organizations through the creation of this endowment,” said Bill Barnes, foundation president and CEO. “Since 1979, the Lamplighters have been active in our community and the foundation is happy to partner with them to keep their legacy of service going forever.” Making the donation are (from far left) Roland Slade, Francisco Palacio, Mike Grote, the 2018 club president, Kelley Hoagland, foundation staff member, Milene McCall, Tom Dewitt, the 2019 club president, Bill Barnes, foundation president, and Valerie Long, the current Lamplighter’s president. Tips for keeping four-legged friends safe in the cold

Courier staff report

The Humane Society of the United States website lists five strategies for protecting pets throughout frigid temperatures and ice melts that we face during the winter months.

Keep pets sheltered

Keep your pets inside with you and your family. Under no circumstances should pet cats be left outdoors, even if they roam outside during other seasons. Dogs are happiest when taken out frequently for walks and exercise, but kept inside the rest of the time. Don’t leave pets outdoors when the temperature drops.

If your dog is outdoors much of the day for any reason, they must be protected by a dry, draft-free shelter that is large enough to allow them to move comfortably, but small enough to hold in body heat. The floor should be raised a few inches from the ground and covered with cedar shavings or straw. The doorway should be covered with waterproof burlap or heavy plastic.

Pets who spend a lot of time outdoors need more food in the winter because keeping warm depletes energy. Routinely check your pet’s water dish to make certain the water is fresh and unfrozen. Use plastic food and water bowls; when the temperature is low, your pet’s tongue can stick and freeze to metal.

Bundle up, wipe down

No matter what the temperature is, windchill can threaten a pet’s life. Exposed skin on noses, ears and paw pads are at risk for frostbite and hypothermia during extreme cold snaps. For this reason, short-haired dogs often feel more comfortable wearing a sweater—even during short walks.

Rock salt and other chemicals used to melt snow and ice can irritate the pads of your pet’s feet. Wipe all paws with a damp towel before your pet licks them and irritates their mouth.

Remove common poisons

Antifreeze is a deadly poison, but it has a sweet taste that may attract animals and children. Wipe up any antifreeze spills immediately and keep it, like all household chemicals, out of reach. Coolants and antifreeze made with propylene glycol are less toxic to pets, wildlife and family.

Dogs are at particular risk of salt poisoning in winter due to the rock salt used in many areas—often when licking it from their paws after a walk. Store de-icing salt in a safe place and wipe your dog’s paws, even after short walks. If your dog ingests rock salt, call a veterinarian immediately.

Protect outdoor animals

If there are outdoor cats, either owned pets or community cats in your area, remember

THE FACTS

- Animal neglect is considered a misdemeanor crime in all 50 states and Washington, D.C.
- Felony penalties can be levied in Massachusetts and Oklahoma for any animal neglect case.
- Felony charges can be applied in animal neglect resulting in death in California, Connecticut, Florida and Washington, D.C.
- Felony charges can be applied in Georgia animal cruelty cases where malice is proved.

How you can help

- Report what you see: Take note of the date, time, exact location and the type of animal(s) involved and write down as many details as possible about the situation. Video and photographic documentation of the animal, the location, the surrounding area, etc. (even a cell phone photo) will help bolster your case.
- Contact your local animal control agency or county sheriff’s office and present your complaint and evidence. Take detailed notes regarding whom you speak with and when. Respectfully follow up in a few days if the situation has not been remedied.
- If you need advice, call the HSUS or email us. Because we aren’t a law-enforcement agency, we cannot take legal action, but we can provide expert counsel.
- If you have pets, follow our advice for keeping them safe in cold weather.

that they need protection from the elements as well as food and water. It’s easy to give them a hand.

You can make your own cat shelter quickly and easily with a plastic tub.

Cars are one of many hazards to small animals—warm engines in parked cars attract cats and small wildlife, who may crawl up under the hood. To avoid injuring any hidden animals, bang on your car’s hood to scare them away before starting your engine.

You can also help make your property safes for deer in the wintertime by waiting until after the first week of December to string lights, and after then, only on trees over six inches in diameter. Before the first snow, you should also store summer recreational materials, like hammocks and swings.

Horse care

Be sure your horses have access to a barn or a three-sided run-in so they can escape the wind and cold. While not all horses will need to be blanketed, blankets will help horses keep warm and dry, especially if there is any rain or snow. If you’ve body-clipped your horses, keep them blanketed throughout the winter.

Give your horses access to unfrozen water at all times. You can use heated buckets or water heaters/de-icers to make sure the water doesn’t freeze. Also, be sure to feed your horses more forage—unlimited amounts, if possible—during extreme cold. This will help your horses create heat and regulate their body temperatures.

Speak out

If you encounter a pet left in the cold, politely let the owner know you’re concerned. Some people genuinely don’t know the risk that cold weather poses to their pets or livestock and will be quick to correct any problems you address. If someone you raise these concerns with responds poorly or continues to neglect their animals, follow our steps on reporting wintertime neglect.

The site also provides advice for what to do if one observes animals that have been left out in extreme temperatures without food and appropriate shelter, which is a crime in some states. The Indiana State Board of Animal Health details criminal offenses relating to the neglect, abandonment, abuse and cruelty of animals.

Cold weather can be deadly for pets, according to the Humane Society.

“We encourage you to contact local law enforcement agencies because pets left outside in extreme temperatures, especially without food and shelter, are at risk of hypothermia, frostbite and even death,” states the Human Society’s website. “Their owners are at risk of facing criminal charges.”

The act of leaving a pet outside without food or adequate shelter often receives less attention than a violent attack against an animal, but neglect is a crime. “Especially in these cold months, it is important for people to bring their pets inside and for others to report neglected animals to law enforcement,” says Ashley Maucri, the HSUS manager for cruelty response, who fields these calls.

How to make sure you don’t have residential damage

The American Red Cross has a page on its site with advice for homeowners and residents to help them fight pipe freezing and other residential damage from frozen pipes.

Why pipe freezing is a problem

Water has a unique property in that it expands as it freezes. This expansion puts tremendous pressure on whatever is containing it, including metal or plastic pipes. No matter the strength of a container, expanding water can cause pipes to break.

Pipes that freeze most frequently are:

- Pipes that are exposed to severe cold, like outdoor hose bibs, swimming pool supply lines, and water sprinkler lines.
- Water supply pipes in unheated interior areas like basements and crawl spaces, attics, garages, or kitchen cabinets.

- Pipes that run against exterior walls that have little or no insulation.

How to prevent frozen pipes

- Keep garage doors closed if there are water supply lines in the garage.
- Open kitchen and bathroom cabinet doors to allow warmer air to circulate around the plumbing. Be sure to move any harmful cleaners and household chemicals up out of the reach of children.
- When the weather is very cold outside, let the cold water drip from the faucet served by exposed pipes. Running water through the pipe - even at a trickle - helps prevent pipes from freezing.
- Keep the thermostat set to the same temperature both during the day and at night.

By temporarily suspending the use of lower nighttime temperatures, you may incur a higher heating bill, but you can

- prevent a much more costly repair job if pipes freeze and burst.

- If you will be going away during cold weather, leave the heat on in your home, set to a temperature no lower than 55° F.

How to thaw frozen pipes

- If you turn on a faucet and only a trickle comes out, suspect a frozen pipe. Likely places for frozen pipes include against exterior walls or where your water service enters your home through the foundation.
 - Keep the faucet open.
- As you treat the frozen pipe and the frozen area begins to melt, water will begin to flow through the frozen area. Running water through the pipe will help melt ice in the pipe.

- Apply heat to the section of pipe using an electric heating pad wrapped around the pipe, an electric hair dryer, a portable space heater (kept away from flammable materials), or by wrapping pipes with towels soaked in hot water. Do not use a blowtorch, kerosene or propane heater, charcoal stove, or other open flame device.
- Apply heat until full water pressure is restored. If you are unable to locate the frozen area, if the frozen area is not accessible, or if you can not thaw the pipe, call a licensed plumber.

How to protect pipes from freezing

Before the onset of cold weather, protect your pipes from freezing by following these recommendations:

- Drain water from swimming pool and water sprinkler supply lines following manufacturer’s or installer’s directions. Do not put antifreeze in these lines unless directed. Antifreeze is environmentally harmful, and is dangerous to humans, pets, wildlife, and landscaping.

- Remove, drain, and store hoses used outdoors. Close inside valves supplying outdoor hose bibs. Open the outside hose bibs to allow water to drain. Keep the outside valve open so that any water remaining in the pipe can expand without causing the pipe to break.
- Add insulation to attics, basements and crawl spaces. Insulation will maintain higher temperatures in these areas.
- Check around the home for other areas where water supply lines are located in unheated areas. Look in the garage, and under kitchen and bathroom cabinets. Both hot and cold water pipes in these areas should be insulated.

- Consider installing specific products made to insulate water pipes like a “pipe sleeve” or installing UL-listed “heat tape,” “heat cable,” or similar materials on exposed water pipes. Newspaper can provide some degree of insulation and protection to exposed pipes – even ¼” of newspaper can provide significant protection in areas that usually do not have frequent or prolonged temperatures below freezing.
- Consider relocating exposed pipes to provide increased protection from freezing.
- Check all other faucets in your home to find out if you have additional frozen pipes. If one pipe freezes, others may freeze, too.

“I could see their lights,” said Roger of the officers in woods on the next ridge over. He thinks they were anywhere from half a mile to a mile from his property.

“They were making a plan and saying they were going to need a helicopter and they immediately had a dog ready to search for him out there in the cold,” said Jane.

The neighbors reported seeing the helicopter circle the area with a spotlight before landing.

Roger and Jane estimated the helicopter was on the ground for about 20 minutes before they saw it take off, presumably with the injured man inside.

“This story is really about the first responders who were able to find and save the man,” said Jane.

The Williamses said the trooper had wondered why they were the first to call about the man.

“It was cold and it was dark and if I hadn’t gone out to let the horses in there’s no way I would’ve heard him,” Roger said. “It was pretty amazing actually, I still can’t understand why we couldn’t hear him from the bottom (of the hill).”

Attempts to reach the Jefferson County Sheriff’s Department to learn the man’s identity and condition were not successful.

Oladipo has surgery on quad
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indiana Pacers guard Victor Oladipo understands the recovery from the ruptured quad tendon in his right knee will long and grueling.

He is determined not to come back even stronger after undergoing surgery Monday. The team said he is expected to make a full recovery but no timetable has been established for his return.

Oladipo was injured in Wednesday's victory over Toronto. He was scrambling back to defend an outlet pass when his leg bent awkwardly and he fell to the ground. Trainers immediately a draped a towel over his injured leg and he was taken off the court on a stretcher. An MRI on Thursday confirmed the Pacers' worst fears — their top scorer would not play again this season.

Whatever happens next, coaches and teammates have acknowledged repeatedly that Oladipo remains upbeat about his recovery.

"There is always that point in time where you wonder why it's happening to you. You even wonder if there was something you could have done differently to prevent the outcome," he wrote in the post. "The confusion, the contemplation, the anger, the sadness and the tears that flow frequently come, but they never last. The amount of support, love and prayers that I have received over the past few days have been breathtaking and has truly inspired me to come back even better than before."

Vinatieri re-signing official

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Kicker Adam Vinatieri has signed a one-year contract with the Indianapolis Colts.

General manager Chris Ballard announced Friday the two sides had agreed to terms on a new deal.

Vinatieri made it official with his signature Monday, then told reporters he was glad the process went smoothly and ended early.

At age 46, he will again be the league's oldest active player next season. If he plays beyond his birthday on Dec. 28, he would join George Blanda and Morten Andersen as the only 47-year-olds to appear in an NFL game.

Vinatieri has four Super Bowl rings. He begins next season as the NFL's career scoring leader with 2,600 points and career leader in field goals made with 582.

Ky. State hires football coach

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky State has hired former Atlanta Falcons assistant Charlie Jackson as football coach. It will be his first heading coaching job.

Jackson spent the last two seasons as a defensive assistant with the NFL Falcons and has worked with the Denver Broncos and Green Bay Packers. His college experience includes stints at Colorado, Utah State, Buffalo and Air Force, where he played football. Jackson was also an executive with the NCAA Football Rules Enforcement Group from 2013-16.

Jackson replaces coaching veteran John L. Smith, who went 7-25 in three seasons with the Division II program. KSU athletic director Etienne Thomas cited Jackson's pro, college and military backgrounds in a release and called him "a total package of experience and expertise."

NASCAR bans betting

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — NASCAR has banned all drivers and team members from betting on its races as part of new gambling guidelines in this season's rulebook.

NASCAR employees are prohibited from disclosing confidential information and from requesting insider information that could potentially help "their own gain or for the gain of others." They are allowed to participate in fantasy sports relating to the three national touring series, Cup, Xfinity and Truck, but may not accept prizes with a value of more than $250 in any games.

Supplee hits for 30 in return for Carroll

sports@madisoncourier.com

Wyatt Supplee made the most of his return to Carroll County's lineup, scoring 30 points and dishing out seven assists but it wasn't enough as the Panthers lost 103-71 to South Oldham in boys basketball on Monday in Carrollton.

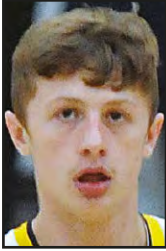

Supplee broke his right hand on Jan. 4 and was expected to be out until mid-February, but the junior returned two weeks ahead of schedule and did not appear to miss a beat.

"He is back, he has it wrapped. He played very well for first game back," assistant coach Will Yeager said. "He practiced all week last week."

Supplee played 26 minutes and was 12-of-18 from the floor overall, going 2-of-5 on 3-pointers — and was 4-of-9 at the free-throw line.

But Supplee had little hope of stopping powerful South Oldham, which shot 63 percent (43-of-68) from the floor and scored at least 23 points in every quarter to pull away for the win.

Carroll County (9-9) actually stayed closed for a quarter, trailing 26-22 after one. But the Panthers fell behind by 14 by halftime and 28 after three quarters.

Along with Supplee, Keishaun Mumphrey added 16 points for Carroll, which shot 52 percent (28-of-54) overall but just 2-of-9 on 3-point attempts. The Panthers also hit only 13-of-26 free throws.

Luke Morrison scored 27 points, Seth Johnson had 18 points and eight rebounds and Jason King had 13 points to lead South Oldham.

The game was the first of three-straight nights of action for Carroll, which is scheduled for four games in the next five days. The Panthers host Eminence today, travel to Henry County on Wednesday and host North Oldham on Friday.

Shelby Wilcoxson scored 25 points and Trimble County extended its win streak to its longest in two years 50-38 over visiting Iroquois in girls basketball on Monday.

The win was Trimble's third-straight, the Raiders' longest since a pair of nine-game runs during the 2016-17 season. Even more importantly it was Trimble's sixth win of the season, far ahead of the two victories the program totaled a year ago.

"There are still a lot of things we need to work on, but we're looking at all the positives; three wins in a row, six wins which triples our wins from last year," Trimble coach Kerrie Stewart said. "We've got a tough road ahead but I think these last three games should be confidence builders for us. We've grown up and we've gotten better in a lot of areas but we still have to work to do. But hopefully getting some wins under their belt will be motivating factors in that it does pay off to do these things."

Trimble County (6-15) also picked up a win over Iroquois last year but the Louisville squad wasn't going to be as easy pickings this season.

Iroquois (5-18) opened the game in a 2-3 zone that slowed the pace of the game and left Trimble flummoxed for much of the first quarter. Wilcoxson scored nine points in that opening frame but worked for every bucket as Trimble held an 11-9 lead after one.

But the next two and a half quarters belonged to the host Raiders, who were finally able to get into their transition game and find open 3-point looks. After Iroquois tied the game early in the second period on a bucket by MaKazia Swan, Trimble closed the half on a 12-2 run to take a 10-point lead (23-13) in halftime.

After trading baskets through the first half of the first quarter, Trimble closed the period on an 11-0 run to push ahead by 18 and built that lead to as many as 20 (45-25) in the fourth before Iroquois whittled the final margin down to 12.

"We've still got some passing up shots at times but not nearly as much as we were doing at the beginning of the year," Stewart said of her team's more aggressive offense. "We spent a lot of time this summer and in the preseason working on our shooting and it's definitely paying off."

Trimble hit six 3-pointers in the game but it was Wilcoxson who led the charge. The sophomore finished four points shy of her career-high with 25 points and was responsible for all 11 of the Raiders' free-throw attempts.

"It's just hard to put into words what she's doing for our team right

Hot-handed Curry leads Warriors to 32-point rout
over Pacers

By MICHAEL MAROT
AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS — Stephen Curry's first-half shooting clinic was virtually flawless.

His championship teammates pitched in, too.

Curry scored 23 of his 26 points in the first half Monday and Golden State ran away with a 132-100 rout at Indiana for its league-leading 11th consecutive victory. The two-time defending champions still aren't satisfied.

"I feel like we can," Curry said when asked if the Warriors can get even better. "We're not playing perfect basketball, by any stretch, but we're playing consistent, focused basketball and we're still working out some kinks with rotations and stuff like that." It's a scary thought for the rest of the league, especially after the two-time MVP turned in another head-turning performance.

Curry made his first eight shots and his first six 3-pointers, including a demoralizing 27-foot buzzer-beater that gave the Warriors a 69-48 halftime lead. He finished 10 of 13 from the field with six rebounds, three assists and two steals in just 27 minutes.

DeMarcus Cousins had a season-high 22 points on a night five players scored in double figures and the Warriors had 39 assists.

And all that came on the final leg of a five-game road trip without Draymond Green, who rested, and against the league's No. 1 scoring defense.

"I was a little worried about this game. Everybody's anxious to get home," coach Steve Kerr said. "But we finished off the trip the right way. We've been more dialed in the last month than we have all season."

Golden State has won a league-high 10 consecutive road games and swept a five-game trip for the first time since November 2014.

The Pacers played without All-Star guard Victor Oladipo, who had season-ending surgery on his right knee Monday, and Tyreke Evans, Oladipo's replacement, because of a sore back. But even at full strength, they may have struggled to weather the Warriors' flurry.

Indiana gave up a season-high 40 points in the first quarter, and never got closer than 16 after Curry broke a 16-16 tie by scoring eight points to start a decisive 24-6 quarter-closing run en route to its most lopsided loss this season.

"There's no doubt in my mind that this team is going on the up track," Pacers guard Darren Collison said. "I think we saw tonight, playing against a team like that, how to execute and we can take something from that."

Myles Turner scored 16 points and Bojan Bogdanovic had 15 but Indiana lost for the second straight time since Oladipo was injured last week. It was the Pacers' worst loss this season.

Zion Williamson powers Duke past Notre Dame 83-61

By ANTHONY ANDERSON
Associated Press

SOUTH BEND — Zion Williamson flew unimpeded again.

For Notre Dame, there was no chance at grounding him. For Mike Krzyzewski, there’s no need to even think about grounding him.

“What do you mean ‘grounded’? So he doesn’t jump, or what?” the Duke coach said Monday night, repeating a reporter’s word used during a question about keeping the Blue Devils’ freshman sensation level-headed.

“The kid’s like one of the best kids in the whole world,” Krzyzewski said. “No way (his head is going to get too big). I mean, he is so good, is such a great kid.”

Williamson scored 26 points, grabbed nine rebounds and blocked four shots, and fellow freshmen RJ Barrett and Cam Reddish combined for another 30 points as No. 2 Duke rolled to an 83-61 victory over the Fighting Irish.

Williamson made 10 of 12 shots from the field for the Blue Devils, who were in control all the way.

Duke (18-2, 7-1 Atlantic Coast Conference) won its fourth straight game while sending Notre Dame (11-10, 1-7) to its sixth straight loss.

Barrett tallied 17 points for the Blue Devils to go with nine rebounds. Reddish had 13 points.

“Our guys, the two games in three days (with) travel, you never know what’s going to happen,” said Krzyzewski, whose club was coming off a 13-point home win Saturday over Georgia Tech, “but our guys really handled tonight well. Proud of them.”

John Mooney scored 14 points and grabbed 11 rebounds for the Irish. It was his seventh consecutive double-double, but he finished just 4 of 15 from the field.

Prentiss Hubb added 13 points, while T.J. Gibbs had 12 points and four steals, but they, too, struggled with their shots, going a combined 9 of 28.

“I told our guys I think we had the two best teams in the country roll through our building in the last (three) days,” said Notre Dame coach Mike Brey, whose club lost 82-55 to No. 3 Virginia on Saturday.

“I like how we competed against this one tonight,” said Brey, who had expressed disappointment in the effort against the Cavaliers. “Let’s see if that can be a better habit for us. It’s kind of been a habit for us — it was just disappointing Saturday.”

Duke, which led by as many 24 points in the second half, was up 46-28 by halftime.

The Blue Devils roared to a 17-2 lead in the opening six minutes, with Williamson scoring nine points during the spree, and were up 26-7 by the time 10 minutes had elapsed.

Notre Dame trimmed its deficit under double digits just once, at 32-23. The Blue Devils’ immediate response to that was a 10-0 run over a span of 2:22.

BIG PICTURE

Duke: The Blue Devils moved into sole possession of the lead in the hotly contested ACC for the moment by virtue of their seventh league win. No. 3 Virginia (6-1), No. 15 Louisville (6-1) and No. 9 North Carolina (5-1) each have one league loss as well, and all were idle Monday. Duke still has road assignments remaining against each of those other three clubs, plus a home date with the Tar Heels.

Notre Dame: Teetering at just over .500, the Irish are in danger of missing out on postseason for just the second time during coach Brey’s 19 years in South Bend. ND has made 12 NCAA Tournament appearances and five in the NIT under Brey. The lone time his Irish were shut out of either was in 2014, when the team closed at 15-17.

YOUTH SERVED

While Notre Dame’s young players aren’t the recognized blue chippers that Duke’s are, youth was decidedly the rule in Monday’s game on each side. The Blue Devils, as is typical, started four freshmen, including Tre Jones, who in his second game back from an injury scored nine points and dealt five assists. The Irish started two freshmen, while neither team started a senior.

Of the 16 players used by the two sides in the first half — eight apiece — eight were freshmen and none were seniors.

IRISH REINFORCEMENT

Brey said he’s hopeful that junior center Juwan Durham will be back by Notre Dame’s next game. The 6-foot-11 Durham has missed the team’s last three games while nursing an injured ankle. Durham is third in the nation and tops in the ACC at 3.2 blocked shots per game. He’s also averaging 6.6 points and 4.3 rebounds in his 15.0 minutes per game over 15 appearances.

UP NEXT

Notre Dame visits Boston College on Saturday. The Eagles (11-7, 2-4) account for ND’s lone ACC win, 69-66 on Jan. 12 at Notre Dame.

Vols stay No. 1 for 2nd week in AP Top 25 hoops poll

By AARON BEARD
AP Basketball Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. — Tennessee handled its first week at No. 1 in more than a decade well enough to stay on its AP Top 25 perch.

The Volunteers received 48 of 64 first-place votes in Monday’s poll to extend the program’s first stint at No. 1 since February 2008. Tennessee (18-1, 6-0 Southeastern Conference) has won 14 straight games — the program’s longest run since the 1922-23 season and one shy of the school record — since suffering a neutral-court loss to Kansas in November.

“To be quite honest with you, I talked to them about (how) it’s new to them,” Volunteers coach Rick Barnes said of the No. 1 ranking after Saturday’s victory against West Virginia. “They’ve earned it, but they can’t forget what got them where they are.

“Is there more noise around them? Obviously, it is. But

Kentucky (16-3) climbs to No. 7; Louisville (15-5) moves up to No. 15; Purdue (14-6) re-enters poll at No. 17 they’ve got to be mature enough to deal with that.”

STATUS QUO

The top six teams in the poll remained unchanged, with Duke sitting at No. 2, followed by Virginia, Gonzaga, Michigan and Michigan State. The Spartans stayed put despite suffering their first Big Ten loss at Purdue in a game that helped lift the Boilermakers back into the poll.

KENTUCKY’S RISE

John Calipari’s latest group of Kentucky youngsters keep winning, and climbing in the poll.

The Wildcats (16-3, 5-1 SEC) moved past Nevada to reach No. 7 after Saturday’s home win against Kansas extended their streak to six games. Kentucky was ranked No. 2 in the preseason poll before a blowout loss to Duke in the season opener dropped the Wildcats to No. 10, then they slid even further, to No. 19, by mid-December.

But Kentucky has been rising ever since, and its only two losses since the Duke game have come by a combined three points.

THE TOP 10

Nevada slid a spot to No. 8, while North Carolina and Marquette each rose two spots to round out the top 10.

RISING

No. 15 Louisville (15-5) has been playing well for the past two weeks under first-year coach Chris Mack. Now the Cardinals, who cracked the poll for the first time last week, have moved up eight spots for the week’s biggest jump after reaching 6-1 in the Atlantic Coast Conference in a week that included a win against now-No. 23 North Carolina State.

No. 19 LSU rose six spots, while No. 13 Houston, No. 14 Villanova and No. 20 Iowa State each jumped four spots.

SLIDING

Maryland (16-5) took a big fall after losses at No. 6 Michigan State and then to Illinois in New York. The Terrapins fell eight spots to No. 21 for the week’s biggest slide among ranked teams.

No. 18 Buffalo fell four spots for the other significant slide.

HELLO AGAIN

No. 17 Purdue, No. 24

Wisconsin and No. 25 Florida State returned to the poll after being ranked for multiple weeks earlier this season.

Purdue was ranked in the first four polls and peaked at No. 19. Wisconsin was ranked in seven polls in November and December, reaching No. 12.

As for Florida State, the Seminoles had been ranked in every poll this season, peaking at No. 9 in December and standing at No. 11 two weeks ago, before falling out last week following a third straight Atlantic Coast Conference loss.

FALLING OUT

Auburn (No. 16), Iowa (No. 19) and Mississippi (No. 20) fell out of the poll. The Tigers had spent six weeks in the top 10 earlier this season.

CONFERENCE WATCH

The ACC led the country with seven teams in the poll, three of them in the top 10. The Big Ten was second with five ranked teams, followed by the SEC’s four and the Big 12’s three.

Baylor replaces Notre Dame atop AP women’s hoops poll

By DOUG FEINBERG
AP Basketball Writer

NEW YORK — Kim Mulkey and Baylor returned to No. 1 in The Associated Press women’s college basketball poll on Monday for the first time nearly six years.

The Lady Bears (17-1) ascended to the top spot after then-No. 1 Notre Dame lost to unranked North Carolina on Sunday. Baylor, which received 24 of 28 first-place votes from a national media panel, last was No. 1 in the final poll of the 2012-13 season. The team was the top choice among voters for the final 11 weeks of that season.

“Anything that’s considered positive for our program and Baylor, we welcome. But really, what does it mean? It doesn’t mean anything. It doesn’t win a championship for you. It just puts a bigger target on your back,” Mulkey said after the Lady Bears beat Oklahoma

Louisville (19-1) climbed one spot No. 3 with one first place vote; Notre Dame (19-2) fell four spots to No. 5; Kentucky (17-4) dropped four spots to No. 19 on Sunday. “It’s not the first time we’ve been ranked No. 1 ... I don’t think it will change anything about the kids in the locker room. I don’t think it will change anything about our practices. Our focus, right now, is Oklahoma State, and then our big focus is winning another Big 12 championship.”

The Fighting Irish fell to fifth, with UConn, Louisville and Oregon following Baylor.

Mississippi State, North Carolina State, Stanford, Oregon State and Marquette rounded out the top 10. The Wolfpack are the only undefeated team left in Division I basketball.

BYU entered the poll at No. 25 while Missouri fell out. It’s the Cougars first ranking since Feb. 13, 2012. Along with Utah, BYU gives the state of Utah two ranked teams for the first time since 2006, when both were in the AP Top 25.

RISING UTES

One week after entering the poll, Utah moved up to No. 14 after beating then-No. 6 Stanford on Sunday. It’s the school’s best ranking since the Utes were 12th on March 10, 2008. The team’s best ranking ever was 11th in 1998.

LAST UNBEATEN

N.C. State (20-0) visits Wake Forest and host North Carolina this week. If the Wolfpack still haven’t lost at that point, the schedule gets a bit tougher, with consecutive road games at No. 24 Florida State and No. 18 Syracuse before hosting Notre Dame.

Hardaway: NBA background causing ‘jealousy’ among rivals

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Penny Hardaway says the NBA background of his Memphis coaching staff is creating a little jealousy among other coaches, putting a target on his own back in his first season with the Tigers.

“I’m getting used to this as a coach because it’s a little jealousy from a lot of these coaches around the country,” Hardaway said Monday. “I do understand that because we are NBA players trying to come back, and we didn’t have any experience as college coaches. So we didn’t quote, unquote, ‘Pay our dues.’ So the coaches and their so-called boys that are in the media they’re going to always throw jabs at us.”

The first-year coach says his Tigers still have to prove them wrong by winning.

Hired last March to replace Tubby Smith, Hardaway hired former NBA player Mike

Miller and Sam Mitchell, a former NBA coach of the year, as assistants. Hardaway has made it clear he’s tapping into his professional background to help his alma mater, including making tweaks to a brand-new basketball facility on campus to bring it up to NBA quality.

His Tigers (13-7) just beat UCF, the preseason favorite in the American Athletic Conference, 77-57 last weekend. And reaching the NCAA Tournament for the first time since 2014 is Hardaway’s goal for Memphis in his debut season, which faces a serious test this week with road games at Tulsa on Wednesday and at USF on Saturday.

Hardaway exchanged verbal jabs with Tennessee coach Rick Barnes a couple days after the Vols beat the Tigers 102-92 in December. Hardaway declined to name any coaches he suspected of being jealous of his coaching staff, saying only that he hears the “rumbling” as they all fight for the same players in recruiting.

He says there’s a bit of a backlash and negativity with the NBA approach Memphis is taking with himself, Miller and Mitchell and that their NBA experience is “a little intimidating to a lot of people.”

“For sure, I definitely feel like there’s a target on my back,” Hardaway said. “There’s a lot of people that don’t want me to succeed because it’s going to look like an NBA guy came back with no experience and won so of course I relish in that.”

Hardaway noted he played for some Hall of Fame coaches during his NBA career, and he also won three straight Tennessee high school basketball titles while also coaching his own AAU program.

“I’m not here to ruffle any feathers, I’m just here to win,” Hardaway said.

Foul touble, Evansville treys pin 1st SRC loss on CAM

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier

A cold shooting night combined with multiple players in foul trouble cost Christian Academy of Madison its first Southern Roads Conference setback of the season against previously winless Evansville Christian 63-50 on Saturday.

The Defenders (10-11, 2-1 SRC) struggled from the field from the opening tip while dealing with foul trouble that limited the action of three starters — two of whom fouled out — as Evansville outscored Madison 22-16 in the fourth quarter to seal the win going away.

As if all that wasn't enough to overcome, CAM struggled to defend the Eagles' dead-eye perimeter shooters six different Evansville players combined for a dozen 3-pointers and outscored the Defenders 36-6 from beyond the arc.

Editor's Note: This is an expanded version of a story that appeared in Monday's edition to provide additional detail.

Luke Carter led the Defenders with 25 points while David Kummer added 11. Starters Clay Carter and Trent Haggard were held to a combined nine points as both fouled out of the game.

Evansville had three players in double figures led by Eban Head with 17, Thomas Paulin with 16 and Connor Sharp with 11. Head knocked down a game-high five 3-pointers.

Madison did go to the foul line seven more times than Evansville (27-20) but the two teams hit 14 free-throws each.

The loss, the Defenders' third straight, dropped CAM to third in the SRC at 2-1 behind Cannelton and Columbus Christian, who are both 3-1. However, the Defenders have beaten both Cannelton and Columbus already with only Dugger Union and Medora to play.

Christian Academy will host Dugger Friday for another Southern Roads Conference game. The Bulldogs are 1-3 in the conference but they also won the inaugural SRC Tournament back on Dec. 1.
